Valley Kiwanis give 1995 scholarships

The Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club awarded three $1,500 scholarships to Spring Graduates of Carmel High School at the June 1 Awards Assembly. The Scholarships are named in honor of a past distinguished Kiwanis President, John Scrogga, according to Kiwanis Scholarship Chairman, Orville Rogers.

Awardees were Mahlon McAnaney, Melissa Underwood and Carrie Tate.

Carmel High School Counselors prescreened and selected 7 candidates to be interviewed by the Kiwanis Scholarship committee who applied the following criteria to their selection:

At least a 3.5 GPA

A resident of Carmel Valley

Exhibition of leadership in school and service to the community.

Mahlon McAnaney plans to attend UC Berkeley as a History Major. He was on the honor roll for 4 years and involved in community service at the Community Center and at the Carmel Manor, where he pursued his hobby of interviewing WW II veterans for their stories.

Melissa Underwood is heading for Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo to pursue a career in Animal Science, building on a hobby of livestock raising that she managed to find time for in between varsity swim team, and Jazz, Pep and Blues band membership. Melissa will tour Australia this summer as part of the Monterey County Honors Jazz Band.

Carrie Tate, a constant member of the honor roll, plans to attend UC Davis in either Math or Science. Carrie is a SPCA volunteer and has worked on Kiwanis projects including the Christmas Tree Lot and the Squid Festival. She was a member of the varsity field hockey team from 1993-1995.

According to Bruce Michels, CV Kiwanis President, in presenting the awards at the Assembly, all of those interviewed exemplified such an array of talent, scholarship and commitment that it made selection difficult again this year.

Carmel Valley as a virtual destination

By, Elizabeth Cowley

Light Systems Company held a demonstration entitled "Putting Your Business on the Information Superhighway" for the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce (CVCC) Board and its members on May 23 at the Crossroads Community Room. Light Systems Company provides a service entitled "Virtual Destination Monterey Bay" which allows internet users to get off the information superhighway at Carmel Valley and see pictures of and read about local hotels, restaurants and other businesses. Light Systems gives a free "page" of space to Chambers of Commerce and business owners can buy advertising "pages" under their geographical heading.

There are an estimated 40 million internet users and that number is growing by 10% every month. Virtual Destination Monterey Bay provides a "road sign" directing internet users to Carmel Valley. Through Virtual Destination Monterey Bay, internet users can make reservations, view property, and plan their vacation right over the computer. Pacific Grove already subscribes to Virtual Destination and Asilomar received 26 responses in their first week of advertising.

The fee to advertise on Virtual Destination Monterey Bay is $400 per year plus a one time $100 fee for the advertisement layout and artwork.

Internet technology was developed by the United States Defense Department during cold war efforts in the late 1970's. In 1981 there were 200 host computers, in 1991 there were 300,000 and in the summer of 1994 there were 3.2 million. A "host" computer is one which can be accessed via the internet. Major universities, newspapers, NASA, and the California Assembly are a few examples of the host computers one can visit.

Pebble Beach Company lists 1995 grants

The Pebble Beach Company Foundation Board of Directors recently approved funding of twenty-seven grants totaling $54,500 at its annual meeting in Pebble Beach.

The grants, which focus primarily on youth education activities on the Monterey Peninsula, were awarded to: All Saints Episcopal Day School, Ariel Theatrical, Big Sur Land Trust, Carmel Bach Festival, Carmel Music Society, Chartwell School, Children's Experimental Theater, Citizens League Art Theater Company, Elkhorn Slough Foundation, Foundation for Monterey County Free Liberties, Junipero Serra School, Lyceum of Monterey County, Maritime Museum of Monterey, Monterey Bay Jaguar Track Club, Monterey County Symphony, Monterey Peninsula Museum on Wheels, NTI Literacy (Nellie Thomas Institute), Pacific Repertory Theater, Santa Catalina School, SPCA of Monterey County, and Stevenson School.

The Foundation also continued its sponsorship of the Sandy Shores Aviary Exhibit at the Monterey Bay Aquarium, fulfilling the second year of a five-year $50,000 pledge with a $10,000 grant for 1995.

Additionally, four annual scholarships totaling $6,000 for children of Pebble Beach Company employees were approved by the Foundation. Two $1,500 scholarships for prior recipients, Liberty Nacional, daughter of Edenilla and Fredelito Nacional, and Deanna Sousa, daughter of Mary and Manuel Sousa, were renewed. Two new $1,500 scholarships were granted to Topui Fonua, son of Mele T. and Motuhi Fonua, and Mary Hidajat, daughter of Yaya and Achmad Hidajat.

Children of full-time Pebble Beach Company employees who have over one year of employment with the Company are eligible to apply for Foundation scholarships. The Pebble Beach Company Scholarship Program for Employee's Children is administered by Citizens Scholarship Foundation of America, Inc., a national non-profit educational support and student service organization located in Minnesota.

A $10,000 Foundation grant was also presented by Pebble Beach Company president, Tom Oliver, to Flood Relief 1995 during the recent telethon. The grant will assist victims of the floods which impacted communities throughout Monterey County in January and March of this year.

Virginia F. K.

Finally, a hero who is strong enough to shed tears, give hugs, profess faith and his own vulnerability while acknowledging his training, and the efforts of others on his behalf. Thank you, Capt. Scott O'Grady.

The same qualities are being demonstrated by supporters and Friends of the Central Coast Hospice. The First Annual Hospice Hoedown was held this weekend at the Holman Ranch to raise fund for the Friends of Hospice Patient Assistance Fund and the newly established Patient Assistance Endowment Fund.

According to Jim Bennett, Development Director, and Susan Freeland, Senior Development Director, the Friends goal is to help insure Hospice Care for everyone in the Monterey County who has need of it. In addition to the 28 bed Hospice House facility located in Monterey, the program also includes in-home care for many terminally ill patients and their families.

Gigi Eastman, live auction chair proudly related that her whole family volunteered their time. All the Board members which is chaired by Leslie Snorf are residents of local communities. The Hospice House, opened in November of 1993 at a cost of $ 8.5 million, has been paid for by money raised locally. The Endowment Fund will insure its continued operation.

More that two dozen members of the Friends contributed their time to this project. Among those enjoying the afternoon sunshine were co-chairs Barbara Black and Sally Rhodes. Other committee members included Mary May Altenburg, Dick and Maria Fetherstanhaugh greeting arriving guests, Jane Tschannel, Joan Thompson, Ann Tipton, Dan Tibbitts, Sandy Storm, Joe and Shirley Payne, Sarah DeSantis and Jane Archer.

Tom and Debby Harris of Harris Stage Lines, demonstrated the art of calf roping on a mechanical roping machine. Believe me, you have to see it in action. A plastic horse on steel legs and a plastic calf on wheels.

Gathered around the silent auction tables were other members of the event committee including Audrey Schrader, Lou Rolle, Bud and Marilyn Hobbs, Cass Antle, Lloyd Koster, Julie Matuszek, Sophie Morrison, Sally Swanson, Jerry Protho, Margaret Oliver and Trey Busch.

A worthy cause attended by over 350 "heroes" supporting many of the more vulnerable members and their families in our community.

Community Gallery. The comment was that I had not interviewed some of the other adults involved to get more "profound" quotes. There is nothing quite like hitting the brick wall of goofs to learn a lesson.

The lesson is is not that I failed to interview other adults, it is that I failed to interview the children. The story was about their art as-well-as the adults involved in the project. I am guilty of doing the very thing I talked about in the article. I talk about the children rather than listening to them. I treated them as "less than" the adults involved.

It is not easy changing beliefs that we grew up with, but it is possible. I will make my amends.

Question: What has been the most significant change in your life so far?

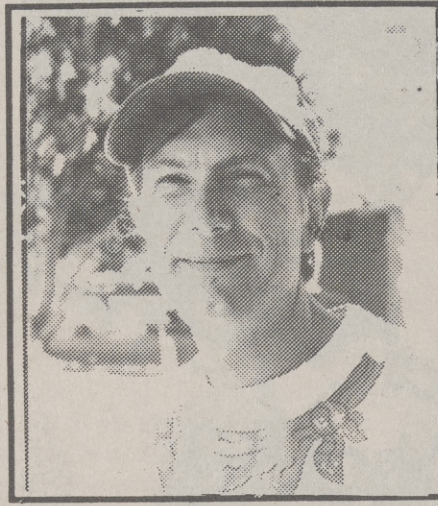

Laurie Harris

The most significant change in my life has been having my two children. Children are the greatest source of joy and the greatest source of frustration as well. I have a greater sense of appreciation of what my parents went through.

Carl Stern

Retirement. That's about all that's changed. I believe it's been a good change.

Walt Koenig

Having kids and getting to go to T-Ball games!

Laurie Pike

Having children. It changes your perspective on what life means to you. You go from the "me" to the "them" syndrome. Also, I changed my profession after 20 years and went back to school.

FUN IN THE SUN

Dave Lyon

Yes, believe it or not folks, we stand once again on the edge of Summer. That long, lazy season of warm days, balmy nights, dinners in the back yard and vacations on the open road. So come, journey with us once more as we cast our dreams to the wind and head once again down that endless highway through Paradise Valley....

As far as I'm concerned, the official start of Summer comes each year with the annual Fireman's Ball, held two weeks ago at Hidden Valley. Hey, you can't beat it; I mean, where else can you spend ten bucks to have all those friends you haven't seen all year spill beer on your shoes and then try to steal your date?

Congrats to all the good folks at the Valley Volunteers for another excellent dance; the band was hot, the beer was not, and the atmosphere was warm. Perhaps some proceeds from the evening will be used to move that dish from atop the firehouse.

Meanwhile, back at Hidden Valley....this Saturday, the 17th of June, the very popular California Cowboy Show returns for the 3rd annual Celebration del Vaquero (that's Spanish for "die with your boots on"). Back by popular demand, Sons of the San Joaquin and Cowboy Poet Randy Rieman. The fun all starts at 6:00 p.m. with a wine and cheese tasting and silent auction. The show starts at 8:00. Tickets are $20 per person and seating is limited. Call 624-9611 for complete information. This outstanding evening is presented by the Carmel Valley Historical Society.

Looking ahead into the summer...mark those calendars for Saturday night, the 8th of July, as HOOFERS Dance Hall returns to the Community Center on Ford Road. Come join your friends and neighbors for an evening of dance music and good times. Beer, wine and soda will be available! Hey, only five bucks to get in the door, and all money raised goes to support the Community Center! Watch this space for more info. or call the CVCYC office for total details. This will be the second in a series of on-going Community Dances dedicated to giving us all an alternative to standing around at the Running Iron spilling beer on our shoes.

It took me several hours of looking around the house the other day to find my cat; and if the phone hadn't rung, I never would have realized she was buried under all those layers of junk in my guest room; under the bowling shoes, behind the weight bench, stuck between my Moosehead beer sign and the water skis I haven't waxed yet. I think she was after the fish bowl...

In other words, it's like, time to clean house! Check it out gang, the 3rd annual, really big, really cool, CVCYC Giant Flea Market and Craft Sale is coming 'round again! It's the perfect chance to get rid of all that excellent stuff piling up around the house! Call the Community Center office at 659-3983 and say "Help, I've fallen under all this junk and I can't get up!" Your Flea Market application form will be in the mail to you the very next day!

Your fee entitles you to a 12x12 space at the Carmel Middle School parking lot from which to sell all those household treasures and garden tools you borrowed from your neighbor. CVCYC takes care of all the advertising, and you take advantage of all those cars passing by on the Valley Road! All craft and antique dealers are welcome! With more than 50 booths last year, PLUS face-painting, food for everyone, AND Debbie's big inflated dancin' Dinosaur thing, this great sale gets better and better each year! Start getting those sale items ready now, or just plan to attend and see what your neighbors are getting rid of!

Hard to believe...the 6th annual C.V. Fiesta is coming around again, thanks to the good folks at the Kiwanis! One highlight of this summer's event will be an expanded running of the Carmel Valley 10K, sponsored this year by the Community Center! Sign-ups for the run-walk are now being taken; contact the CVCYC office and get your name on the list ahead of the herd!

While at the Community Park, be sure to stop by the CVCYC Soda Booth and support the on-going efforts of the Community Center to bring "Funshine" to Carmel Valley!

VALLEY VOICE

Fran Farina

If you haven't heard yet, there will be a new traffic signal at Carmel Middle School (CMS). Sometime within the next five to seven months, a light will be installed at the existing school driveway. The only surprise was how little discussion took place by the Board of Supervisors.

The cost is estimated at $220,000. The Carmel Unified School District (CUSD) will have to contribute $40,000. The County will pay the balance. The improvements include the signal, pathway on the north side of Carmel Valley Road from Rio Vista Drive east to the school, and turning tapers for Rio Vista Drive to facilitate left turns into and out of that street.

The figures provided by Public Works show 253 cars exit CMS during the morning peak hour traffic. This figure is significant since only 575 children attend the school. That means that 44% are being privately driven. If you're on Carmel Valley Road between 7:30 and 8:00 a.m., you know what traffic is like. Now you know where a large amount of it is coming from.

CUSD has a fleet of 18 busses to transport children within the district. Unfortunately, they are under-utilized. According to a recent transportation study they had commissioned, "There are very small student loads on the busses, raising questions about the efficiency of the bus routing and scheduling."

An additional problem for the school district is the cost of this bus service. They now spend about $667,000 on transportation services. In an effort to reduce costs, don't be surprised if existing routes are consolidated or eliminated.

What all of this means to residents in Carmel Valley is more parents privately chauffeuring their children to school. With the installation of their own traffic signal, it will be more convenient for parents to drive their kids because they won't have such a hard time getting back on to Carmel Valley Road.

This traffic signal, which was originally going to be temporary until the Rio Road extension was built, is now permanent according to comments made by the Supervisors.

And what about future traffic signals? While some argued the CMS light was for school safety, the same argument can't be put forward for other intersections such as Rancho San Carlos Road, Dorris Drive and Laureles Grade.

Yet, there is a move afoot for stoplights at major intersections throughout the valley. Public Works has already done an analysis for and will recommend a traffic signal at Rancho San Carlos Road.

Signals are the cheapest way for the Supervisors to solve the traffic problems on Carmel Valley Road. Of course, when this happens, we will no longer have a rural road, but a "city" street with the level of service measured at intersections as though we were a city.

So the next time you drive Highway 68 on your way to Salinas, remember that Carmel Valley could look the same within a few years.

FLOODS AND STRESS - PART 2

By Dr. Ann Flood

Last week I discussed many of the ways that stress can appear in an individual. Many of these appearances of emotional distress can seem unrelated to their real cause. Instead, they may appear to be part of the normal ups and downs of life. Some symptoms of stress may appear briefly. Some symptoms may last for a long time. Some symptoms may be relatively minor while others can be very pronounced and severe.

The intensity, as well as the duration of a person's reaction to stress will depend upon several factors. Principal among them are the following:

1. The personality and inner resiliency of the victim/survivor.
2. Prior traumatic experiences and their successful resolution. If someone has not successfully integrated or resolved previous traumas, unresolved issues may resurface as a result of the present experience of stress.
3. The degree and extent of personal loss from the incident. For example, there may have been physical injury to oneself or to significant others, the death of a family member or friend, the death or injury of a pet, the loss of personal items (such as favorite toys, etc.), or the loss of one's home and/or familiar surroundings. When these losses are combined, this can be especially traumatic. This would be true, for example, in the case of seniors who have lost a lifetime of memorabilia, family pictures, and other personal belongings.

4. Other stressful events that were happening in the person's life at the time of the trauma. For example, if there were significant events occurring during this time, such as relocation, divorce, change of schools, or a death or illness in the family, the person's coping ability may already have been diminished prior to the recent stressful events.

5. In the case of dependents, the impact of the trauma on their parents and/or caregivers and the ability of those caregivers to cope with their own losses and simultaneously care for another person.

Recognizing these factors may help to understand much of the behavior that occurs as a result of individuals' reactions to recent stressful events.

Next week, in part 3, I will discuss some of the things that you can do to help yourself, your friends and your loved ones.

WHAT'S NEXT? Mel Vercoe

King George would have thought it was funny. Five duly elected Monterey County officials had the exclusive power to hit all of the taxpayers in the Salinas Valley for more new taxes than it cost to build the Hoover Dam 60 years ago. One almost useless project, for $76 million. Another project, totally useless, for $128 million and nobody mentions the interest on the 40 year loans (7.62%) which will bring the total payback to roughly a half billion, give or take 20 or 30 million.

Our county attorney, (just doing his job), tells us with a "you are being sued" ad in the legal notices, that if we don't like it, we can protest it with a legally correct response delivered to our Superior Court by June 26. By coincidence, June 26 is the day the public is going to be told what took place during several high level strategy meetings from which we faithful taxpayers were excluded.

But, there was a bright, cheerful side. The county attorney's office gave me, free, a nice card with a phone number I could call in order to get an attorney who could tell me (for a $30 fee) how to word a protest to deliver to the Superior Court. I expect the $30 would be wasted, but I could pretend it was a vote in an election and I'd be the only voter in the whole valley, except for our five supervisors, to have a chance to vote on these two useless projects. Well, not totally useless. Just useless for stopping seawater intrusion.

The intrusion could have been stopped at any time, by simply reducing pumping, which would be unthinkable, politically. The two projects exist purely to give the appearance of addressing the problem, so as not to disturb money-making enterprises.

Yes, King George, it is kind of funny, happening in 1995 AD in the World's greatest democracy.

The Monterey County Bank on Via Nona Marie has been kind enough to help us distribute these gift certificates to the public for the last 2 years. They carry SCRIP for Albertson's, COSTCO, Safeway, Long's, Mervyn's, Macy's and AT&T. We appreciate their help.

For more information, or if you wish to order any of the SCRIP gift certificates, please call Elisa Gray at 624-0828. She will put you in touch with a representative from the school of your choice. We would be happy to work with clubs or businesses, and could even set up a delivery schedule! We hope everyone will take this opportunity to help the children of our community.

Carmel Valley

Dear Editor, Carmel Valley Sun,

A growing trend in vandal sport seems to be attacking Carmel Valley and other rural locations. Mostly the sport of bored young people; it involves a car or bicycle and a baseball bat. The object is to attack the rural post boxes in a sort of shoddy polo match. What an insult to the "sport of Kings."

Some are not content with merely damaging a mailbox. Mail itself is opened, trashed or destroyed.

In a recent incident, a friend of mine lost a catalogue ordered dress to those marauders. Perhaps one of the youngsters is a want-to-be cross dresser.

We all can understand youthful energy searching for release, but this sport has some serious consequences.

The notice of a wedding, birth, or death that doesn't get to the recipient; a message of love meant to heal a long-time resentment going astray; a social security check that could mean the difference between eating or not eating that month; a notice of a scholarship application that has a deadline that might not be met; bills not paid on time and years of credit put in jeopardy. That's a lot of responsibility to take on for the sake of relieving boredom.

We've come a long way from the days when teenagers carried the mail through dangerous territory on a Pony Express Route.

Beyond the moral implications, there's the fact that tampering with the mail and theft are crimes.

Use of a baseball bat adds an ironic twist, there's a whole new meaning to "three strikes and you're out."

Plans have been completed for the 6th edition of the Carmel Valley Fiesta to be held August 4, 5, and 6, 1995.

Kicking off this year's events will be the Hoopla to be held at the Trail and Saddle Club on Friday evening. The Hoopla features a wild boar barbecue baked "luau style" in a pit.

Entertainment, refreshments, and a silent auction will be featured events. Fiesta Chairman Frank Quilty indicated that due to the popularity of last year's event, tickets sales will be limited and food service will be more efficient.

Saturday starts off with a parade on Carmel Valley Road. Then, arts and crafts, food, refreshments, and entertainment will be available all day at the Community Center Park.

Frank mentioned that the Fiesta arts and crafts will continue to maintain the high quality of prior years.

CHS class of '76 aims for reunion

Did you graduate from Carmel High School in 1976? The CHS Bicentennial Class of 1976 is planning its 20th reunion for the summer of 1996 and they need current addresses. Box 82285, San Diego, CA 92138.

Saturday night the Valley's biggest party occurs - The Fiesta Street Dance featuring "Strictly Country" and "Cheeky Spanks". Light dinner and refreshments will be available.

Sunday morning starts off with a 10K run and planned 10K walk. A pancake breakfast follows as does the always popular Parade of the Clowns. Anyone interested in participating in the parade should contact Randy Randazzo at 659-2472.

The balance of the day features continued activities at the Community Park culminating with the drawing for the Grand Prize which is a TRIP FOR TWO TO HAWAII, INCLUDING AIRFARE.

Additional information is available by calling the Fiesta at 659-2038. Requests for booth applications can be made at the same number.

SHORT SALES NOT A NEW CONCEPT

One of the hottest buzzwords in real estate today is "short sales". These are sales that can be made when the property is worth less than what is owed on it, and the existing lender takes a loss.

Short sales are not a new concept, but as values have declined, they have become much more popular. In the 90's, they may be the newest fodder for real estate gurus to trample on.

Many real estate agents are willing to take listings at arbitrarily low asking prices that are less than what is owed, "subject to lender's approval of a short sale". If they are successful, sellers can salvage their credit and avoid the foreclosure process. If they are successful, buyers might be able to buy the home for below market prices.

But like any other innovative strategy, while short sales have their place, they also have their limitations; they have their reality as well as their myth. Here's the myth; you don't want to own this house anymore. You've accepted the fact that the value has declined and eliminated your equity. Nobody will pay what you've paid in today's market. At today's prices, all the money that you put into it as a down payment has vanished. (So far, you're right on target.)

You figure your lender realizes this too, and will thus cooperate in your desire to sell by sharing in your loss. Maybe they'll accept a short sale. Nice try, but you've just entered fantasy land.

Think back. When you bought the house you signed a not to pay for 30 years. "Well, nobody owns a house for 30 years anymore!" True as that may be, virtually everybody still finances them for that long. While the amount of the note may have been determined in part by your purchase price, it contains no provisions as to the property's current value.

Can you see a potential conflict? The lender does, and the lender is not sympathetic. After all, the lender doesn't ask for you to pay back more when the property has gone up in value, and you decide to sell.

In almost all instances, when short sales are granted, they are done so on a case-by-case basis when an actual hardship is determined. Your motivation to sell has nothing to do with it. You've relocated. You've found the house of your dreams. You've outgrown this house. Your kids have all moved out. You're getting a divorce.

You're getting married. Your neighborhood is infested with gangs. You have absolutely no reason to stay in this house anymore, at all.

None of this matters. If you have the ability or assets to pay, chances are your lender won't budge. Many real estate agents are as unclear as the general public on short sales. If your loan required mortgage insurance, for example, it's reasonable to assume the lender would be more cooperative, because they are insured against your default. And, if your motivation is strong enough, you might be ready to walk away from the property, regardless.

If the lender and the mortgage insurance company cooperate in a short sale, you calculate, they will come out tens of thousands of dollars ahead. Your ability to continue payments has diminished and you are ready to move out of town. So is it a shoe-in for a short sale? Absolutely not.

Mortgage insurance companies are not in the business to subsidize lost property values. They are prepared to call your bluff and take you into foreclosure.

"Even if they stand to lose, say $30,000?" you ask. As an industry, they are willing and prepared to take million dollar losses before they let billions of dollars of lost values destroy them. Mortgage lenders concur.

What's the difference to you? It is whether or not you are willing to have a foreclosure on your credit rating. Once that happens, your ability to buy a home in the future is greatly hampered. Mortgage lenders can be lenient on bankruptcies and other credit maladies, but once they see that one of their own has been hurt, they become unforgiving.

The reality is this: Even when short sales work, they can be difficult. When the buyer gets the offer accepted, the existing lender must approve the contract. Going through the bureaucratic maze can delay the escrow for months. No one knows for sure what the final outcome will be.

Meantime the buyer's loan rate may change, the seller has gone further into arrears, other homes have come on the market at new asking prices. The seller should also be aware that the IRS may view the loss they are being allowed to take by their lender as an actual, taxable gain. So the seller's financial troubles may not be over even at the closing.

Life situations have a way of changing without prediction. Lenders understand this, and have several methods to cure problems. "Work outs" can be win-win situations for all involved. Short sales are one such method, among others. There are no panaceas, however. Often, it comes down to making the difficult, painful choice that may only be marginally less intolerable than the other alternatives.

Before you list your property for sale, "subject to lender's approval of a short sale," it's important that you investigate all of your choices and the consequences first.

Coastal Navigation class offered

The Coast Guard Auxiliary will present a fourteen week Advanced Coastal Navigation class at the Monterey Coast Guard Station beginning June 15, 1995. Lessons will cover the use of nautical charts and navigation tools to accomplish dead reckoning, piloting, position determination and current sailing. Students should have completed a previous boating class or have equivalent experience and be prepared to complete homework exercises as well as attend classes.

Sessions will be held Thursdays from 7:00-9:30 p.m. The only cost is a $30 fee for the textbook and training charts but plotting instruments will be needed. For more information call 393-0723.

You need more than a little "exposure" to sell your home in today's market.

print/graphics firm gets new owner

Peninsula Laser Print, located across from the Carmel Rancho Post Office at 3785 Via Nona Marie, Suite 107, in Carmel, was recently purchased by Dick and Jan Feaster.

Owner Dick Feaster has had a life-long interest in the newspaper arena, beginning as the printer of his high school newspaper in Auburn, Washington. He was active in Journalism and Photography in college at the University of Washington in Seattle, where he also earned an engineering degree.

After 25 years as a fighter pilot in the United States Air Force, he went into management in the aerospace industry at Lockheed Corporation in Sunnyvale.

In 1986 he moved to West Palm Beach, Florida and worked for United Technologies as Vice President of Business Development. In both positions, Feaster was very much involved in communications, supervising the production of national advertising, internal training, and sales materials including technical and marketing brochures.

According to Feaster, "We are very excited about expanding Peninsula Laser Print to better serve the needs of our community. We will be providing a broader range of printing services through new equipment purchases and expanded floor space in the near future."

Peninsula Laser Print is a full-service organization which provides high quality design, typesetting, layout, ink and paper selection, printing, bindery and copying services. They offer one to four-color printing, always on time and on budget, with a professional, friendly staff.

VALLEY FINANCE

Douglas Pease

One growth stock mutual fund stands above all others as the most successful growth stock mutual fund of all time, and yet 57% of all its investors lost money! Obviously, they sold too soon. Less obviously, they did not know what to expect of their investment.

Ten years ago, investors held their shares in growth stock mutual funds for sixteen years on average. Now the average is two years. Historically, expecting any growth stock mutual fund to prove its worth in two years...is expecting too much.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average of blue chip growth stocks soared 86 points today, I know for a fact that not one money expert interviewed on the money news channel yesterday predicted today's gain. Expert investors, then, don't win respect by predicting what the market will do in its next session. Respect may proceed from the fact that experts do not expect amazing profits from a growth stock mutual fund within two years or it's time to sell.

If you are not an expert, you can still do some interesting things with mutual funds while you are waiting for the time to pass. Some of my clients don't care that their income fund invests in junk bonds: it pays an 8% dividend these days, and the dividends buy shares in a growth stock fund in the same family. Something nice is bound to happen every month. If the share price drops in the income fund, its dividend still happens. If the share price rises on the income fund, the whole account just appreciated. If the share price drops on the growth fund, the income dividend buys a slightly larger piece of growth fund at the lower price. If the share price rises on the growth fund, all the growth shares just appreciated, whatever their original cost. If the market soars 86 points and carries the growth fund up to glory, it might make sense to exchange some of the profit out of the growth fund into more shares of the income fund...to pay bigger dividends...to add yet more shares to the growth fund when the market drops again. Sure, the market will drop again, which is fine with some of my clients. Right...they know what to expect of their investment.
